Highlights

- Nonsocial cognition in total accounted for 17% of the variance in ToM.
- None of the nonsocial cognitive variables had a significant, unique contribution in explaining ToM.
- ToM and nonsocial cognition are distinct constructs.
- Improved ToM is not to be expected from training of nonsocial cognition.