

Errata for
Low Birth Weight & the Risk of Progressive Kidney Disease.

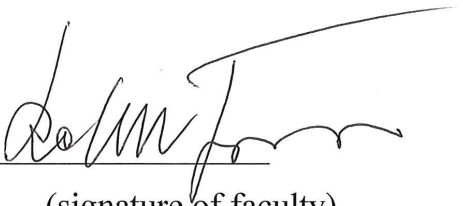

Epidemiological & Morphological Studies

Paschal Joseph Ruggajo

Thesis for the degree philosophiae doctor (PhD)
at the University of Bergen

Paschal Ruggajo
(signature of candidate)

(signature of faculty)

01.09.2016

Errata

- Table of contents; Serial 3 heading spaced to the right to match the others
: Full stop (.) after serial 5
 - Page 10 : “data were analysed with” changes to “data were analysed using”
 - Page 11: “ μm^3 ” changes to “ μm^2 ”
 - Page 12: “This theory known” changes to “This theory is now known”
 - Page 14: “70 years later” changes to “seventy years later”
 - Page 16: “nutritional environment act maladaptive to predispose” changes to “nutritional environment may trigger maladaptive responses that may predispose”
 - Page 16 : “nutritional programming has been studied more extensively” changes to “nutritional programming is the most extensively studied”
 - Page 18 : “fetal undernutrition” changes to “fetal undernutrition”, “environment” changes to “environmental”
 - Page 19: “Finding” changes to “Findings”
 - Page 20 : “Aditionally” changes to “Additionally”
 - Page 21: “hypercholestelemlia” changes to “hypercholesterolemia”
 - Page 22 : “refers transmission” changes to “refers to transmission”
 - Page 25 : “variably increased risk” changes to “variably with increased risk”
 - Page 26 : “in relation to evidence of of fetal programming” changes to “in relation to evidence of fetal programming”
 - Page 27: “offspring¹²⁶ Studies” changes to “offspring¹²⁶. Studies”
 - Page 36 : “may be play” changes to “may play”
 - Page 36: “insufficiency” changes to “insufficiency”
 - Page 41 : “born very preterm birth” changes to “born very preterm”
 - Page 48: Footnote on Fig 5: “(Courtesy: Sabine Leh)” changes to “(Courtesy: Sabine Leh, MD, PhD; Nephrologist, Haukeland University Hospital, Bergen, Norway).”
-